Black History and Contemporary issues in Medway

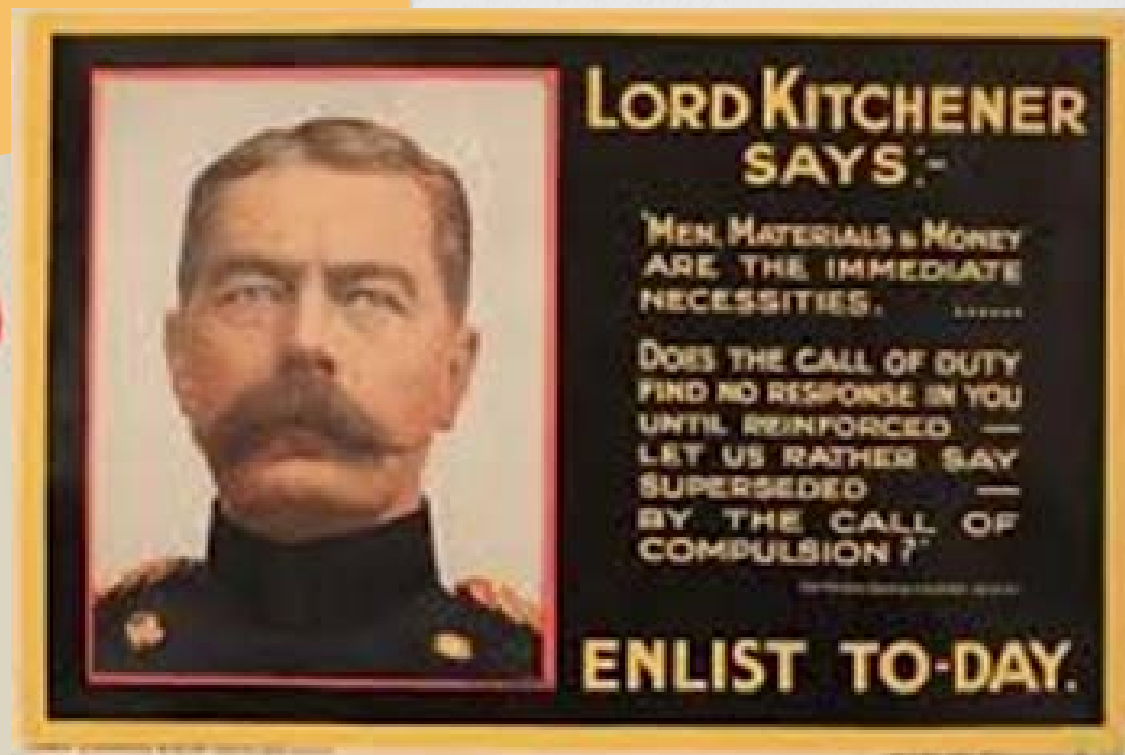

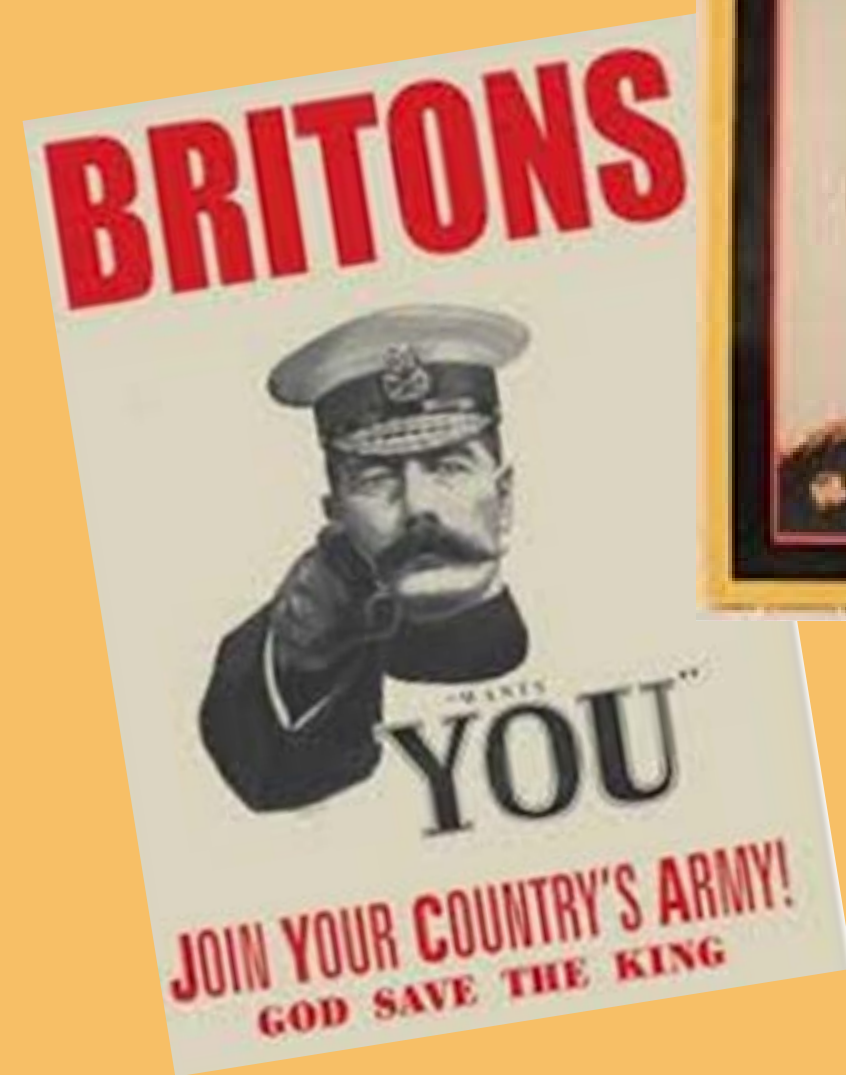

A protest is like a giant group activity where people come together to express their opinions and stand up for what they believe in...

WHY?

British Histories: A Look Back

Lord Kitchener: a racist but glorified by the Brits during the WW2

He oversaw the first ever concentrations camps during the Boer Wars. Over 100,000 black Africans were captured and tens of thousands died, no records were kept. Today, Kitchener's statue overlooks all of Chatham.

How do you communicate?

So...Why do protests happen?

So...How would you express injustices?

Fight the POWER!

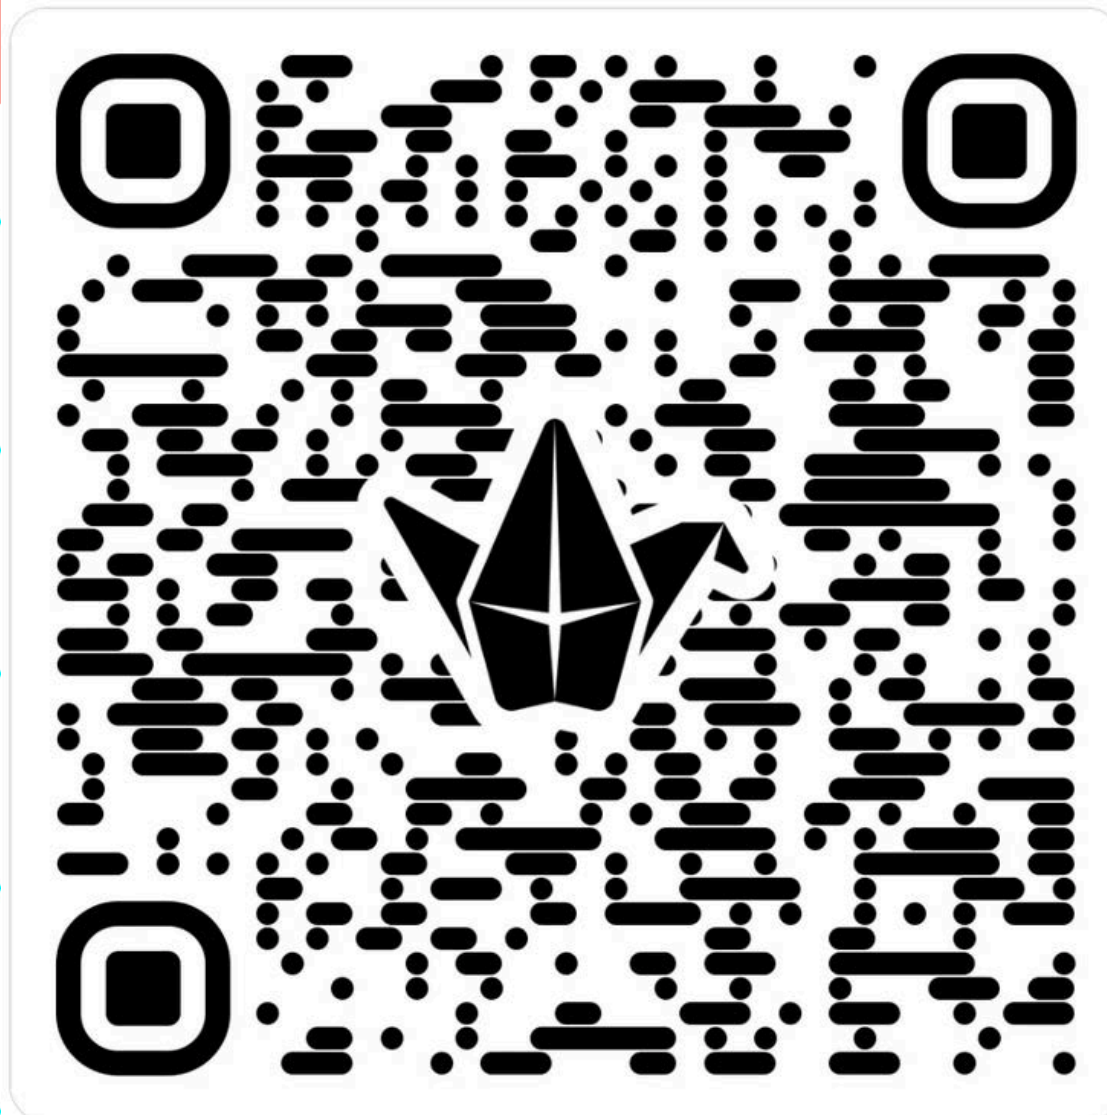

Gather Around

Step 1: Let's make two big circles, one inside of the other.

Step 2: Act out a communication scenario. You will have 1-2 minutes. The inside and the outside of the circle will have two different parts so listen close!

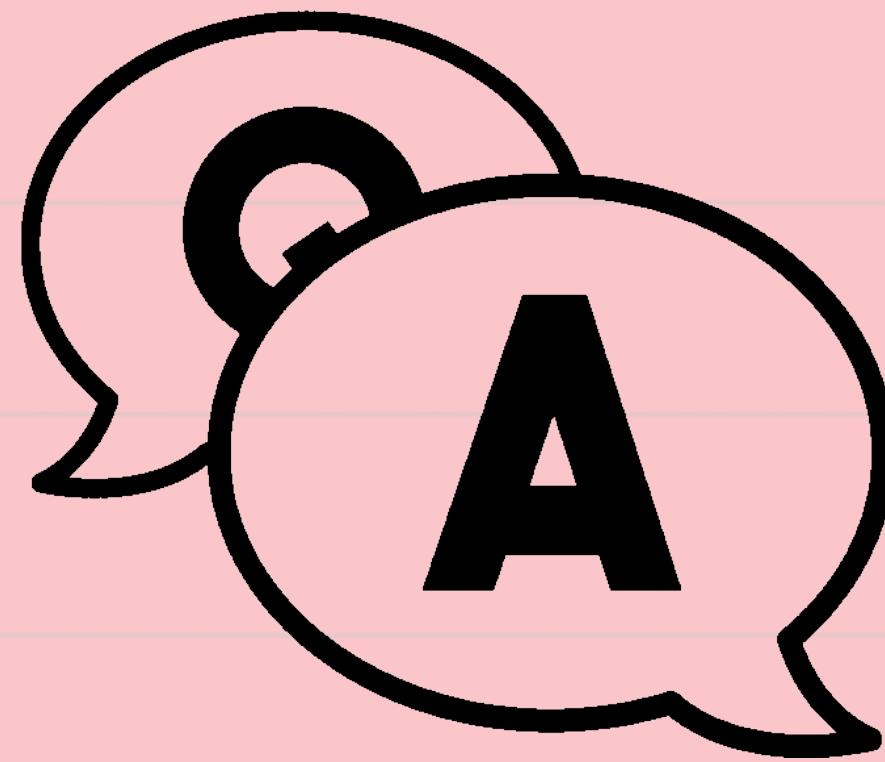

So let's recap!

Uncovering Histories: Medway Memories is made possible with The National Lottery Heritage Fund as part of the Medway Heritage Place programme. Thanks to National Lottery players, we have been able to produce a resource for schools that to teach Black British history, focusing on local history in Medway to young people, offering broader perspectives to topics by linking it to modern-day issues.
